He fears that New Jersey will seem poor and cramped hereafter to his enlightened eyes...

PERSONALS (continued): The brakeman and conductor on a Wichita and Wagon train going west Friday evening engaged in a five-foot fight between Cheyenne and this city. It seems they handled a revolver, lanterns and their fists in a lively and to one of them, very disastrous manner. The last referred to came up town exhibiting a bloody face and head and loudly calling for the marshal. The conductor was arrested on an examination being made by Judge Cross was fined $3 and costs. Next day complaining witness was arrested and fined. From what we can learn it was a family row in which all were blameable.

A BRIGHT BOY GONE.

The ride ran low, ran very low, ran out, and then he settled down upon the land. And winter's face, the face of death, was sweet. The painfully sad news went out through the gloom of last evening to many homes in this city, that Burr Thomas was dead. His father, Mr. W. A. Thomas, known as one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Wichita, had left home but two days before for Sherman, Texas, and by wagon from the south line of the state, under the assurance that his boy, by whose bedside he had been anxiously watching for weary weeks, was out of all danger. The mother and the brother and sisters are left with their dead and the added distress of the absence of the father in the heart of the Indian country where he cannot be reached by mail or by telegraph in a few minutes after the sudden and unexpected calamity a courier took the south bound Texas express for the territory with the purpose of making the seemingly hopeless attempt of reaching Mr. Thomas on horseback. We talked with Mr. Thomas only a few minutes before his departure and he was joyous over the supposed fact that Burr had passed the crisis and was improving very rapidly, he saying among other things that the knowledge of the boy that his sickness had been detaining his father had increased his illness. It doesn't seem possible that Mr. Thomas can be overtaken or intercepted before all that remains of his boy will have been laid away from sight forever.

Burr Thomas, who was among the first children born in this city, was 17 or 18 years old, and was known to nearly all of the youth. Bright and gentle-faced, studious and ambitious, he was the pride of his father and the hope of a happy home, into which but one such sorrow had ever entered. But the cloud which hung over that home during the dark watches of last night, who can measure its depths, with the added misfortune of the father's absence. Possessing the hopeful disposition and sunny life so characteristic of his father, the heart around his heartbeats will moan and bleed indeed, while the hearts of many other homes will reach out to them in deepest sympathy. But death is not the end. While love sobs, hope whispers, and we shall meet again where life is life untroubled by the change which we call death; where the radiant spring-time of eternal existence is never followed by such autumnal gloom as that of last night in which the spirit of our youthful friend Burr, winged its triumphant flight beyond those common skies whose folds shadow so much of strife and doubt. The dark night, as we write these words, is raining lonely tears, but as sure as there is a bright morning ahead, so those of that sorrowful household, and who is far away, all unconscious of the stirring wave that must overtake and overwhelm him with its grief, are assured that, as certainly as the darkness of this night shall be followed by light, and as that spring with its blossoms and birds, will succeed the now impending winter, so sure will their boy, Burr, in the glory and benignity of eternal youth, meet and greet them again on brighter shores and in a better home.

At this writing nothing with reference to the funeral has been determined upon, and probably will not be until it is known whether Mr. Thomas is to be reached in time or not.

THE CONTEST ELECTION CASE.

Mr. C. H. Luling yesterday filed with the county clerk papers announcing his intention to contest the declared election of W. W. Ayres as clerk of the district court. The case will come up before Probate Judge Beckner Monday next for preliminary hearing at which time date of trial will be determined. The position announced, malconduct, fraud and corruption of the judges of the first precinct of the Fifth ward of holding the polls open until 5:30 p. m. on the day of the election and receiving sixty ballots after 6 p. m., the legal time for closing the polls.

Malconduct, fraud and corruption is charged of the judges in Minneka township, where the judges spent most of the day election evening and influencing voters, allowing voters to put their votes in the ballot box. The same conditions alleged prevailed in Gypsum township and at Derby.

It represents that Ayres at the time of the election was deputy sheriff. The petition claims that the political tricksters manipulating the financial side of taking Coates off the Democratic ticket did not have the power to make the change, and hence their action was not sustained by the state law.

The petition represents that Coates was promised a deputy sheriffship under Ayres, and half the emoluments of the office. That William Grant voted at Keel township, and is not an elector. The same was true of L. Tabler of Delano, and Newton Saunders of Morton townships. That R. K. Coates, by reason of a bribe, was influenced in casting his vote at the first precinct of the Third ward. That in Payne township the returns show more votes than electors in the township. That Constantine Murkio voted in Park township, and is not a citizen of Kansas.

COLLECTING DATA.

The Hon. J. G. McCoy is back from the Oklahoma campaign a little disgruntled but in the ring. He explains it by saying he can get along on a party platform all right but cannot handle himself in a town lot campaign. He is now making figures on the live stock enumeration of cattle on the range and represents that the work is getting along all right. He has been in the field of C. Cantwell in the New Mexico district, who by way of parenthesis was in the habit of killing people, has been relieved. Mr. Hepburn, of Valley Center, has also been relieved by the department. Mr. Bone, of Wellington, has also completed the territory work and will go to New Mexico, and will be heard from in the line of interesting orders.

The work in most of the districts has been going along nicely and it is thought by the 1st of January all the field data will be secured and the remainder of the work can be done in the office. There seems little probability that the report of the department will be completed within six months as it will include a wonderful amount of data in many forms and columns, giving information about many features of the live stock industry which is the way in which the most important in this country.

THE INDIAN COMMISSION.

The Indian commission, consisting of ex-Governor D. H. Jerome, of Michigan; Judge W. G. Sayre, of Indiana; Judge A. M. Wilson, of Lawrence, Kan., and Secretary C. H. King, of Oklahoma, arrived here yesterday from Reno. They leave this morning for the Frisco for Liekeup.

The commission has spent about four weeks negotiating with the Cheyennes and Arapahoes and have secured about 3,000 acres of land, the Indians to take land in severally and become citizens. Since commencing work last May the commission has negotiated for about 4,000 acres of land. They are en route to meet the national council of the Cheyennes and negotiate for the "strip." It will probably take some weeks there when they will go down into the Wichita country. They have twenty-three tribes yet to deal with, calling for work of some months.

IMMENSE SCHEME.

A Proposition to Have New Stock Yards With Accommodations on the Perpetual Motion Plan.

There have been many schemes in Wichita, many varieties and each variety sub-divided into many parts. The latest to come to the surface, but which, by the way, has been quietly smoldering for some time as a result of a strong appetite in the line of personal interest, provides for new stock yards. The originator claims to have no money, which is conceded to be correct, but further claims to have brains. He proposes to furnish the brains if some one will furnish the money.

Like some others about two months ago he commenced to hovel calamity in order to carry out a plan to get hold of something that a part of it at least might get lost in his own pockets. He has represented to the Alliance in many places in person and by letter to many cattlemen in the southwest, that the stock yards at Wichita have not been treating them fairly. While he, himself, is supposed to be a lawyer and expert in the line of personal interest, provides for new stock yards, and has never been in the stock yards, yet he is quite certain that the poor farmers are being imposed upon. He can imagine the iron heel coming down upon them until their cries of agony can be heard farther than the bellowing of the cattle. Being in strong sympathy with the poor man, including himself, he has a cure all remedy that if taken in time will be attended with good results. In order to fully understand the properties of the medicine it is proposed to have a meeting some time next week and a specimen of the combination analyzed. If the same one will put up the money it is represented that the affair will be a tremendous success, and no doubt about the contracts being aligned brains. As explained by the originator yesterday one hundred and sixty acres of land will be purchased, supplied with government sheds and stock yard apartments. When the market is a little slow and it is thought the owner should receive more the plan would be to put the stock in the government sheds and get the government to make out at 1 per cent or nothing if the owner says he feels to have a little loose cash. If the 100 is filled up with live stock in this way and more room is necessary, to be in the next quarter most desirable and have the whole outfit plastered with a government loan. This remedy as represented comes in small packages, only costing a few cents and worth many thousands of dollars.

The proposed meeting next week will have in view primarily the new stock yards scheme, and secondly, will consider another line of business in which another gentleman representing himself as not having ready cash but ready brains, will be primarily interested. In fact, the latter's scheme is of more benefit to the United States than the other, entering directly into the elements that prolong the life of the republic, but being more modest, patient and retiring he has promised in the interest of harmony and smooth sailing to wait a few days before making his claim a special order.

THE NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

It is thought the new school building on the Harris street in the Fourth ward near Eleventh street and Cleveland avenue will be completed by the 1st of January next and ready for use after the holiday vacation. The building will be of the job lots variety. Part of it will come from the old Kellogg school building. It was to be removed some distance, but the present plan is to build on the old Washington avenue school will play a conspicuous part also and two rooms will be added to the construction. It will be a one story four room affair with hot air heating apparatus. The building will be constructed on the superintending plan and it is thought can be put up at a cost that will be an advantage over the rent plan now affording room in that locality at $20 per month.

A BIRTHDAY SUPPER.

Mr. J. H. Aley is 56 years old today and he was reminded of the fact about midnight last night. About fifteen of the Knight Templar boys called at his residence just after the town clock had announced the midnight hour. He was wearing a suit of gray and a successful day's business but the racket at the door aroused his frame as well as his suspicions. He was dancing to the music of his friends for an hour or more and the performance by request of the public will be repeated tonight. Mr. Aley says it is his first fifty-eighth birthday and he wonders down deep if it will really be the last.

AMUSEMENTS (continued).

A large crowd was waiting for the doors of the Crawford Opera house to open last night, to witness the first appearance of the big eastern attraction, the Arizona Joe Dramatic company and the great acting duo, the "Lovers."

The Union Pacific Railroad company failed to make connection at Denver and so did not get the company in until last night at 10:40. The Arizona Joe company left San Jose Monday and have traveled over 2,000 miles, being on the cars five days and nights. The company had a contract with the Union Pacific railroad to land in Wichita at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, and the railway company having failed, it will be held responsible for all losses.

The Arizona Joe company have traveled almost around the world, and from every place where this attraction appeared, have been endorsed by both the press and public, as having one of the best sensational attractions traveling, and have a well-earned reputation for doing everything as advertised, being one of the very few that keep faith with the public.

Tonight the Wichita public will have the first chance to witness this great show and from the appearance of the crowd that were in waiting last night, it may be well for those who wish to secure seats, to do so early in the day.

The chorus of the first act where the stage coach drawn by two real live horses dash across the stage and is attacked by the Black Hawk and Arizona Joe comes to the rescue, is said by the San Francisco Press to be the most realistic scene ever seen on any stage.

The dramatic work done during the play by Arizona Joe's dogs is, without doubt, the most wonderful work ever done by any animals. With this company is also Jumbo, the champion St. Bernard dog, valued at $10,000, and the most noble animal of its race.

During the play Arizona Joe introduced some wonderful shooting, such as cutting a horse in half and shooting a knife out of a would-be murderer's hands. The support of Arizona Joe is said to be above the average and the comedy parts are in the hands of two of the best comedians, W. J. O'Brien, the musical wonder, and C. C. Allen, the comic song and trick dancer.

The company number fifteen people and with the which they will have after the long trip, all those who attend the Grand Opera house tonight can depend on seeing one of the best of western plays and the greatest of acting dogs and horses.

Chas. A. Gardner can be highly praised for the enterprise he has demonstrated in arranging and presenting to the public so good and pleasing a play as "Fatherland." It is uncommonly interesting, because its ideas are new. The scenes are picturesque, and will be familiar to those who have traveled in half an hour of the most beautiful mountains in the Tyrol. The play is more romantic and decidedly more absorbing than those generally thrown together for singing companies. Mr. Gardner possesses a sweet tenor voice and sings only songs to which it is adapted, his clever work all through being received with great enthusiasm by the large audience, and as a whole, the attraction at Pope's this week is one which should be generally patronized.—St. Louis Evening Star Says, Saturday, Crawford Grand November 18.

"PEARL OF PEKIN."

"The New York Herald, speaking of its 250 nights' run in that city, says: 'The success of the "Pearl of Pekin," at the Bijou opera house, is a record in the annals of that favorite house, and nothing in the career of this theater has proved so satisfactory to the management as the success of this play. It is the greatest night in costume that has ever been seen on the New York boards. The piece is delightfully fresh, piquant and amusing, and Crawford Grand November 18.'

While answering a alarm of fire Thursday evening a rubber coat belonging to Fred Fleming was lost off of the book and ladder wagon. The finder will please leave it at Hose house No. 2.

Some men have the money getting others the money saving faculty, very few have both. Those endowed with the former in its plenitude, and who exercise it to the utmost, often become miserly in their indulgence in the expensive luxuries which ambitious tastes can suggest, but the colossal figures of finance, the giants of the "bank note world," by whose side the half million and million fellows are merely respectable dwarfs, are generally rigid economists in their personal expenditures, and such people are disconcerted enough to call them "scrooges."

Upon the whole it is much easier to make money than to save it, and although we would not advise any one to be miserly, it is certainly the part of wisdom and prudence to set aside a considerable portion of the income to provide for the future, and so to invest this reserve fund to place it, if possible, beyond the reach of all the ordinary contingencies of business. It is a pleasant thing during one of those financial cyclones which every now and then make shipwreck of innumerable fortunes to feel that one has a anchor to windward that will not drag. Therefore while you are making money save it, and as you save it put it where no monetary convulsion can bring your "nobles to ninnence."—New York Ledger.

It is found that milk white wash composition for fireproofing exterior surfaces may be formed by slaking a sufficient quantity of freshly burned quicklime of the best grade, and when the slaking is complete there is added such an amount of skim milk, or water in its absence, as will make a liquid of the consistency of cream. To every ten gallons of this liquid are added, separately and in powder, stirring constantly, the following ingredients in the order named: Two pounds of alum, twenty-four ounces subcarbonate of potassium or commercial potash, and one pound of common salt.

If white paint is desired no further addition is made to the liquid, though the whiteness is found to be improved by a few ounces of plaster of Paris. Lumberback has the effect of giving a number of shades, from slate color to black. Whatever tint is used is incorporated at this stage, and the whole, after being strained through a sieve, is run through a paint mill. When ready to apply the paint is heated nearly to the boiling point of water, and is put on in its hot condition. It is found that the addition of a quantity of fine white sand to this composition renders it a durable covering for roof and crumbling brick walls, which it serves to protect.—New York Journal.

A Hornet Carries Off a Spider. "You may talk about the cunning of the fox, but you should have seen how a wasp turned the tables on a spider," said a man the other evening when they were telling hunting stories. "One day a fellow sportsman and I were returning from a successful tramp for 'grays' on the Ticonderoga flats, up in Essex county. We were resting on the bank of an old brook when our attention was attracted by a buzzing sound near by, which we soon found to come from one of those big black hornets that hunters generally steer clear of.

The old fellow lay in a spider's web, buzzing away. We saw at a second glance, however, that he was not entangled in the meshes at all. He would keep quiet a moment and then buzz again. He continued to act in this manner for about a minute, and we were unable to account for his strange conduct. Pretty soon, up from its den among the rails, came a good sized spider, which bravely grappled with the huge intruder.

It then became clear that the action of the hornet had been only a wily ruse to attract the spider, for he at once stung the plucky little defender to death, and flew away with it to his big nest in a thicket of blueberries on a neighboring hill.—New York Tribune.

Not Very Princely Wages.

"Come, now," I said to the bearded Italian who was blacking my shoes at the corner of Third avenue and Thirty-third street, "speak up frankly and tell me honestly what you make a week?" "Two dollar, two dollar half a week," said the Italian.

"What?" said I, incredulous; "two dollars a week! Oh, come now!" "That is all, boss. Honest!" His voice was impregnated with sorrow. "B'hoose can you live on two dollars and a half a week?" "I don't live, I don't live at all. But what can I do? It's a bad corner, but I get no better. The man up there at Thirty-fourth street he make big wage. He make six, eight dollar week. I get no customer. Please some one to see Ze. Then I get his corner. That is all."

Waiting for a dead man's shoes, and those shoes cut to the size of $5 a week! I concluded not to embark on the sea of his riches just yet. It is better to be a five cent barber, I thought, for then, at least, you have a razor with which to cut your throat, and the Potter's Field still has corner lots to let.—New York Herald.

Where "The King's Daughters" Are.

It has been our privilege to place upon the records of our order the names of members from Japan, China, India, New Zealand, Australia, the Sandwich Islands, Turkey, France, Italy, Germany, Great Britain, and from every state and territory in our own country. We little dreamed—we who hoped when this order was founded that we might never be an organization which would be talked about or written about in the papers, or be called upon to hold great public meetings—that in less than four years the globe would be encircled by the wearers of our sacred emblem, and that it would shine forth from the remotest corners of the earth, telling of those who love the king and who desire of his love in his name.—Mrs. Margaret Bottom.

Fresh Air for Baby's Health. I have found that an unflinching remedy for sleeplessness in my children is fresh air, either taking them to it or introducing as abundant supply into their rooms. Taking them to it is the surest way. My nurse, when baby was two weeks old, was bewitched by the disease known as colic, and was trying in the daytime, and used every means in her knowledge to cause sleep, but with out success. At last I insisted that my recipe should be tried. She should take him into the garden. So she bundled him up, and then went for a handkerchief to cover his face. I objected—that would not do. She would protect his face with a sun shade, but he must have air. So out he went, with his great blue eyes wide open to look at the world.
